WHERE THE CELEBS HEAD

So Mr Clegg, what's your favourite resort? A-listers, from the Deputy Prime Minister to a former England rugby player, tell us where they make tracks

MARK BEAUMONT

Adventure cyclist

"That's really tough. In terms of big resorts you can't beat Chamonix and Courmayeur, especially now you buy one lift pass covering both. For small resorts I love La Fouly in Switzerland, it has just a couple of lifts which open up a whole mountain that hardly anyone skis. It's fresh tracks until the sun melts the powder."

CHARLEY BOORMAN

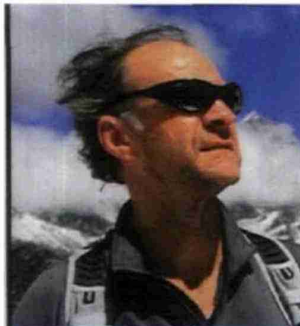

Adventurer and TV presenter

"My wife, two daughters and I love the traditional resorts rather than the purpose-built ones so places like St Anton, Les Gets and some of the older parts of Val d'Isère."

SIR RANULPH FIENNES

Explorer

"Courchevel 1850 (below). I know it so well as I used to visit it every year. I love the big range of runs."

KT TUNSTALL
Singer-songwriter
"I learnt to ski in Scotland but the most fun trip was a later family holiday to Val d'Isère and Tignes. That was exceptional skiing and I was at the right age for Val d'Isère (above) at New Year – there was a lot of staying out all night."

BEN FOGLE
Adventurer and TV presenter
"It would have to be Aspen (left) – I went there for the first time seven years ago with a mate who had won a prize in a competition. We stayed in a top chalet and were spoilt. The pistes were the most pristine I'd ever skied and what I really liked was there were none of those vast queues for lifts that you get in Europe."

NICK CLEGG
Deputy Prime Minister
"Definitely Davos (left). We go there every year. The skiing is great, and there's superb off piste too. My wife is Spanish and I have discovered an outstanding resort in Spain called Baquiera Beret. Wonderful snow, and great hotels, food and wine. The Spanish really know how to live."

LAWRENCE DALLAGLIO
Former England rugby player
"I learnt to ski with the Warren Smith Ski Academy in Verbier (above). It was a tough place to start but without doubt the right place to be. I loved the variety and challenges. There's no such thing as an early night – the après is extreme."

MICKY DOLENZ

Drummer from The Monkees

"In Cervinia (left) my ex-wife and I went over the top of the mountain and down to Zermatt, where we stopped for a fantastic fondue. That was one of the best experiences I've ever had in the mountains. I forgot to mention that one in the divorce case!"

MARCUS BRIGSTOCKE

Comedian

"Méribel (below) as it's in the middle of the Trois Vallées and you have access to a vast area. Because of doing Altitude, the comedy festival in the resort, I know loads of people so always have someone to ride with. My second favourite is Val d'Isère, because each day you can discover incredible off piste."

JACK OSBOURNE
TV presenter
"I went heli-boarding in Utah which was awesome. I also really like Canyons (left) and Park City – also in Utah – there's so much terrain there. A great tip is to go during the Sundance Film Festival in January because everyone's watching the films so no one is on the slopes at all."
